

COUNTERFEIT ALERT

Bleached Genuine $5 Federal Reserve Notes
Re-printed with $100 denomination.

“Cartoon” style stamp
(typically red or blue in color)

Serial Number

Security Thread: Genuine Federal Reserve Notes (FRN) have a polyester thread embedded vertically in the paper. The thread is inscribed with the denomination of the note, and is visible only when held up to light. Each denomination has a unique thread position and will glow a unique color in UV light. Under a UV light source a genuine 2006 Series $5 FRN will glow BLUE.

These counterfeit notes are genuine $5 FRNs that have been bleached and re-printed to appear as if they are $100 FRNs. All notes to date have had at least one “cartoon” style stamp in the upper left corner. Additionally, the polyester security strip will glow BLUE under UV light.

Please call the U.S. Secret Service with any information pertaining to person’s passing these notes.
